

Introduction to e@UBC

Interested in starting your own venture, or already working on one? Creating a successful new venture is challenging.

Entrepreneurship@UBC's mission is to help entrepreneurial faculty, researchers, staff, students and alumni to create innovative new ventures, from idea to funding and beyond.

At this session e@UBC's Sean Lumb, Director of New Ventures and Blair Simonite, Program Director will introduce you to the powerful combination of support and programs that e@UBC provides to help venture teams increase their likelihood of success:

- Entrepreneurs-in-residence: Successful entrepreneurs that provide UBC startups with real world guidance and advice.
- Lean LaunchPad Accelerator: Develop a validated business model using an evidence-based approach that will be familiar to researchers.
- Mentor network: More than 60 industry mentors with deep experience in a variety of relevant sectors.
- External advisors: Legal, government funding, Genome BC.
- Founder community: Connect to the experience of a growing community of UBC venture founders.
- Company building: Intensive executive guidance for selected high-potential ventures.

Your questions will be welcome and encouraged!

For more about entrepreneurship@UBC, see <http://entrepreneurship.ubc.ca/about/faqs/>.

